Instructions.

Most sentences have been classed under different headings, but it is not intended that a sentence should apply to the heading it is placed under. My name being registered at the Telegraph offices, Moncton, N. B., London and Liverpool, G. B., as Foster, messages should simply be addressed—

“FOSTER, Moncton.”

In sending messages great aid will be found in referring to the Index, which, for this purpose, I have endeavored to make as complete as possible.

If the sender of a message wishes to be satisfied that a message has been received and translated correctly, he may do so by the following plan. Let each letter of the

Alphabet be represented by a number, as follows:—

A = 1	J = 10	S = 19
B = 2	K = 11	T = 20
C = 3	L = 12	U = 21
D = 4	M = 13	V = 22
E = 5	N = 14	W = 23
F = 6	O = 15	X = 24
G = 7	P = 16	Y = 25
H = 8	Q = 17	Z = 26
I = 9	R = 18

After making up the telegram add up the numbers representing the different letters used in the words of the message, and add at the end of the message the total in figures. For example—

R A S C A L.
18 1 19 3 1 12.

P E R C H.
16 5 18 3 8

E N S U A L.
5 14 19 21 1 12

E S C O R T.
5 19 3 15 18 20

Each figure under each letter represents its value according to the above table, and these figures added together make 275, and the message should be sent off thus:—

“Rascal, Perch, Sensual, Escort, 275;” or
“Rascal, Perch, Sensual, Escort, Celestial.”

The word “Celestial” represents 275.

The receiver of the message will therefore add up the numbers representing the letters used in the message and if the total corresponds with the checking number the message is in all probability correct.

This plan is also invaluable in checking the accuracy of a message and the means of deciding which the first word really is without having to repeat the telegram. Supposing the message had been transmitted correctly except the word "Escort," which was perfectly unrecognizable, but the meaning of the other words of the message suggested the word as probable, to find out if really the correct word add up the figures represented by the letters of the correctly transmitted words, and deduct this total from the checking number, thus:—

Checking number.....	273
Total figures of correct words.....	193
Total of numbers represented by letters of words wrongly transmitted.....	80
The numbers representing the letters of the word "Escort," add up.....	80

Therefore it may be taken as a certainty that the word "Escort," is the correct word, it agreeing with the sum of the message and also the checking number.

—:o:—

In telegraphing £190. s 17. d 2½ stlg, correspondents use the following words, thus:—

"Candor, Apology, Aloud, Skittles."

In telegraphing quotations for Flour, Meal, etc., use the following example:—

Suppose flour is worth $6.75 per barrel, correspondents will use the word "Citadel."

My correspondents will please take notice that I have entered this "Telegraphic Code" at "Department of Agriculture," Ottawa, under "The Copyright Act of 1879." I therefore especially request that it shall not be used by any person corresponding with any other person or persons other than myself—without authority.

I also wish it distinctly understood that upon termination of relations as correspondents with any of my customers, they shall immediately, on application, return me any copy or copies then in their hands of said "Telegraphic Code."
